

GoodRx Health is a digital consumer health publication. We cover topics such as medications, conditions, well-being, personal finance, and pet health.

GoodRx Health doesn't typically accept unsolicited pitches from writers. Rather, we assign to freelance writers who fit our editorial values. This includes integrity, reliability, and empathy. We build long-term partnerships with freelancers, so pitch us who you are as a health writer!

We assign primarily informational pieces that explain health topics to readers. We generally don't cover news or first-person narratives. To write about pharmacy or clinical topics, we look for licensed healthcare professionals.

You can read our editorial guidelines here: <https://www.goodrx.com/about/editorial-guidelines>